Maize Crop Nears End In Milam Area

2 NEW WILDCATS

11 Milburn Tests Tried

By Lloyd Albertson

Two new wildcats were scheduled for south Milam County last week and two wildcats drilled the week before were being completed in the new North Milbur Field, making at least 11 tries in the field.

One of the new wildcats also will be drilled in North Milbur. This will be Ashland Oil & Refining Co.'s No. 1 Cliff Blackburn located on a 90 acre lease in Smith Vincent Survey. Drillsite for this wildcat is 1,310 feet northeast of Ashland's No. 2 Blackburn - Trammell, and 750 feet northeast of Luling Oil & Gas Co. No. 1 A. Coldiron brought in last week.

TO BASAL WILCOX

Permit depth for the Cliff Blackburn is 3,800 feet or the basal Wilcox. It will be Ashland's third test in the new field.

Ashland also filed potential last week for its No. 1 Blackburn - Trammell completed two months ago, showing it pumped 66 barrels of oil per day on perforations at 2,657 - 65 feet.

The other new wildcat scheduled will be a 6,400 foot deep test and will be drilled by J. M. Huber Corporation of Houston. It will be Huber's No. 1 Robie Love.

Location is on a 2,038 acre lease in James Shields Survey and about three miles south of Milano and three miles northeast of the North Milbur Field. It also is in the same area as another scheduled deep test, the Herman C. Page No. 2 Eddie Scurlock located on a 98 acre lease in Benjamin Swoap Survey and planned as a 6,500 foot Glen Rose try.

EDWARDS LIME

Huber's No. 1 Love wildcat, however, will have the Edwards Lime as its objective, a formation which so far has not produced oil in Milam County, although it is a prolific oil producer in some areas of Texas.

The two completions in the North Milbur Field last week were the Huber Corp. and R. E. Smith No. 4 H. H. Coffield Unit, waiting on cement at last report, and Luling Oil & Gas Co. No. 1 Coldiron, having pipe set and tanks moved in to the lease.

GRAIN SELLS AS SUPPLY GOES DOWN

With the maize crop over the heavy production, Milam County Agent J. D. Moore estimated that county farmers would bring in as many pounds, tonnage wise, as last year. He added that last year was considered a good crop.

"Some areas had better weather conditions than others, but all counted we will have about the same harvest," Moore said.

Although production costs were generally higher this year grain prices are good and farmers should come out with a good profit according to most agriculture representatives.

Because of world conditions the United States supplies of grain in storage are down and grain is selling on the open market.

Agriculture production statistics show that about 45,000 acres were planted in grain sorghum this year. Moore said he anticipated an increase in acreage planted to grain sorghum next year because of the drop in cotton prices.

Moore said cotton growers in this area had suffered this year for three major reasons: price drop, dry weather and heavy insect damage. "Cotton matured late last year and we didn't clean out the fields as well as in the past, which caused heavy insect buildup for this crop," Moore said.

He said he looked for more interest in the longer staple short staple cotton in Milam County. "This variety of cotton was tested in McGregor this year and so far the results have been good.

"We need to keep cotton in Milam County," Moore said. "it is a good crop. Local farmers aren't going to give it up just because they are having problems -they will fight the problem and produce a marketable product."

Interest is also building in growing sunflowers which have been grown only on a test basis in this section of the country. Central Texas climate conditions are favorable and they can be processed in existing cotton gins.

City Needs Donors For Bloodmobile

A dangerously low supply of blood in the Central Texas Blood Bank has caused concern in local hospitals and placed special emphasis on the North Milam County Bloodmobile visit which is scheduled Friday, August 4. The Bloodmobile unit will be at Methodist Fellowship Hall from 1 to 7 p.m.

Sister Aloysius at St. Edward Hospital and F. L. Gregory, administrator at Newton Memorial Hospital reported that several requests for blood in recent weeks had to be denied because of the shortage.

Sister Aloysius said failure of participating communities, including North Milam County, to meet quotas in the last Bloodmobile visit was a major reason for the shortage. Only 63 pints were collected during the last visit, she said, and Milam County was 118 pints below their quota last year.

She said a heavy demand for blood from the center during the summer months added to the shortage. Increased accidents resulting from seasonal travel and recreation and scheduling of elective surgery during vacation months had drained the available supply.

Sister Aloysius, chairman of the Red Cross blood program here, said that participation in the program had saved area residents thousands of dollars in recent years as well as saving lives in countless emergencies.

Blood obtained through the Blood Bank is free with a charge of only $8 per unit for collecting, processing and distributing. Blood purchased commercially costs between $30 and $60 per unit.

North Milam County residents are also eligible to receive blood from the Red Cross in any hospital in the United States with a certificate of eligibility from the local Blood Program chairman.

Requirements for donors are:

Age 18 to 59. Those under age 21 must have written consent of parent or guardian unless they are men on active military duty or married women;

Weigh at least 110 pounds;

Good general health.

Prospective donors will be examined by a physician at the Bloodmobile and will be asked for a brief medical history, Sister Aloysius said.

$37,700 Water Loan For Branchville

Council To Hear Downing Counsel In Thursday Meet

Attorneys for Downing Brothers, Inc. of Waco are on the City Council agenda for a scheduled meeting 5:30 p.m. Thursday.

The agenda had not been drawn up at City Hall by 2 p.m. Wednesday, but attorneys for Downing, a Waco contracting firm, said they had been notified by letter from the City they would be on the agenda.

Downing, through attorneys, had written letters to Mayor Bassel Wilson and four City Councilmen about two weeks ago, asking a rehearing on bid letting of a 100-block city paving program. Slough Construction Co. of Temple was unanimously voted winning bidder. Attorneys are Don G. Humble and Ed Magre of Cameron, and some Waco counsel.

Also expected on the agenda is discussion of the agreement made by three councilmen with County commissioners last Friday night, concerning an annual County payment of up to $800 for rural fire calls.

COVER GIRL--Mrs. Jack Brooks, the former Charlotte Collins, of Cameron, was cover girl on the July 23 issue of Texas Sunday Magazine, published by The Houston Post.

The entire issue was about proteges of President Johnson and how well they have done on their own since leaving the White House.

And a good part of the issue on Mrs. Brooks, wife of the Democratic whip of the House of Representatives, was about her busy life as a Washington socialite, politician's wife and social worker.

Last year, Mrs. Brooks was mentioned in Newsweek magazine as one of the 10 Most Beautiful Women in Washington, selected by a nationally syndicated columnist Mrs. Brooks is the daughter of Mrs. Bassel Wilson, of Cameron.

FILCHED . . .

Three "hippies" were speeding down the highway at 95 mph when the one sitting in the back seat noticed a door not tightly closed. He grabbed the handle and clicked it shut.

The driver turned around and said "Hey, man, who got in?"

Then there was the mother whose small boy started dragging his leg. He denied feeling any pain, there was no visible injury, and the family physician could find no cause.

After the mother had spent nearly $100 on specialists, X-rays, etc., one doctor asked, "Son, why are you dragging your leg?"

The boy answered "Cause I'm helping Mr. Dillon, I'm Chester."

$800 Maximum, All Fires

County, City Set Terms

Three city councilmen and four members of the Commissioners' Court Friday night agreed to a $800 maximum annual County payment to Cameron for rural fire calls of all types.

County Judge O. B. Harden said Wednesday that County Atty. John B. Henderson Jr. is drawing up an agreement for City-County signatures which would put the proposal into effect August 1 for one year.

Agreed to by Councilmen Lawrence Zotz, Starrett Hickman and Lester Turner and Commissioners Lavert McKinney, Albert Timmerman, Adolph Gresak and Judge Harden was:

—A 50-cent per mile, $10-an-hour City fee for fire equipment used in rural fires, including grass fires, up to a maximum annual total of $800.

The meeting, second in two weeks for the two groups, was held 7:30 p.m. Friday at Milam District Courtroom.

ONE OF A SERIES

It was a culmination of a series of meetings of volunteer fire departments and exchanges of letters between City and County.

A Precinct 2 Volunteer Fire Dept. was organized two weeks ago in another meeting at Milam District Courtroom, naming Nathan Lewis, of Cameron, and a Cameron volunteer fireman, chief. The night following, Cameron volunteer firemen voted unanimously to continue making rural calls.

Prior to organization of the Precinct 2 VFD, Commissioner McKinney had purchased a used fire truck from Rosebud, to be used in Precinct 2 rural fires. The City's position at that time was to stop rural calls after August 1 if reimbursement for all rural fires at a higher rate was not paid by the County.

The figures of 50 cents per mile and $10 per hour for City fire equipment halved an early City request for $1 a mile and $20 an hour for using city trucks in rural fires of all types.

ALL TYPE FIRES

The agreement includes reimbursement, on a regular basis, for grassfires for the first time. Prior times, the County followed a 10-year practice of paying $25 each for only non-grass fires.

But City records showed that most rural calls were grassfires, for which there has been no payment.

City Council concern over out-of-town calls was heightened in October when the main city pumper overturned and killed the driver on a run to Rockdale where an explosion-fire at Alcoa occurred.

The City later sought an $1,800 reimbursement fee from the County, which was rejected when the County countered with an offer of $650 annually.

Up until the meeting last Friday, it appeared the City would reject all proposals and end fire service to the rural areas, as a March City letter to the County advised.

It was not clear, in view of the pending agreement, whether fire equipment from Precinct 2 would also be used by Cameron Volunteer Firemen, who compose the membership of Precinct 2 VFD.

MORALE FLIES SKY HIGH . . .

Mail Goes Before All: Jim

SECOND OF A SERIES

By Frank M. Luecke

Like soldiers in other wars, Pfc. James Pavelek appreciates mail more than a shower, an amenity worth a man's life in combat.

His letter of June 21 details the bitter experience of jungle school, which, of course, is better than combat itself. Jim, 20, once called Jamie in Cameron where he was a promising artist, is a clerk with a supply company of the 173rd Support Bn (Airborne).

In his words, Vietnam mud fails to slake his appreciation:

"Boy, my morale flies sky high! I'm beaten down, deaf from firing my M-16, and soaking wet, but that shower has to wait 30 minutes while I read my mail."

Stationed near frequently shelled Bien Hoa, Jim has been in Vietnam only eight weeks. But he is much older. Listen:

JUST LIKE —!! THAT

"Now that I'm in Vietnam and with the guerilla infantry for this one week of jungle school, life and you people back home start meaning a whole helluva lot! You can go just like —!! that over here. The U.S. Army uses so many dangerous weapons and ruthless tactics that an infantryman can very likely kill himself, somebody else, or wipe out a squad--and never know it . . . . ."

What makes the rugged infantryman and marine, so highly praised by comparative non-combatants like Jim? His week of jungle training suggests one reason.

"Let me tell you about this jungle over here. First of all, John Wayne won't ever make a movie over here, because if a studio flew a camera crew over here to photograph, they'd have to drop three or four bombs in one place to make a small enough space to shoot one scene. You must get down on your hands and knees to crawl through more than half of it . . . . ."

"There could be an airfield 10 meters from you and you couldn't find it without map and compass. I'm not exaggerating. It's so thick that in a perfect ambush on the VC, you can wipe out another flank of your own men because you can't see them."

CUT YOUR WAY

. . . . . He continues: "What few trails you may find you can't walk on because of booby-traps, so you have to cut your way through all of it."

Further, he writes: "It's so thick the sun never shines in it. As a result, it's damp and muddy and the air chokes you up. This war is going to last as long as these jungles grow. And nothing's going to knock them down."

A loner can't make it. Jim says "you must rely on the guy in front of you because if he loses the guy in front of him, the 20 guys behind you are all lost. And the equipment you carry is something else--400 rounds of ammo and 5 boxes of C-rations, two canteens, two ammo pouches, four tape hand grenades, entrenching tool, poncho and M-16 . . . . ."

Back in camp, Jim is safe. "Please don't worry about me here. Please, I'm in a support battalion, I'm a clerk and I'm making combat pay just like those poor boys who are up north getting hot lead thrown at them."

Nevertheless, Jim is finding Vietnam "an experience of my life."

Speaking further of jungle school, he notes:

"The climate in the jungle is unbelievable and I'm very glad that 6 days is all I'll ever see of it. Tomorrow four full platoons will go out and stay overnight. The last encounter we had was May 11 when about 14 recruits like me opened up on 3 VC and blew the life out of them. It was the only incident this year. Just the same, you can bet old Jim is gonna be sleeping like a rabbit tomorrow night. Ain't no Charlie gonna come up on this boy."

NO CHARLIE CAME UP

That training is past and "no Charlie came up on this boy," one of perhaps a dozen Milam Countians in Vietnam combat zones.

He has settled "into his new job nicely. Somewhat of a postscript in a letter to Mr. and Mrs. Ed Pavelek, of 1310 West Main, of July 9, describes off duty time:

"Yesterday the 'Exodus' book came. Before I got your long letter Pop. Thanks for the pictures. Greg did get a good one at Love Field. I'm going to write Sis & Ed. They should be back from Florida by the time the mail gets back. It's been a very busy week. New people are coming in every day. Old ones are going home--some for good."

That is how permanent Vietnam can be and the impressions it leaves on a young artist-soldier. His story will continue.

A Pattern Of Pillage . . . .

A pattern clearly emerges in the Detroit riot debacle.

It is one of organized lawlessness -- in an almost holiday abandon of pillage and destruction--where fires start by "Molotov" cocktail, where liquor and gun stores are dismantled.

And mobs--both white and black in Detroit--sack and destroy what police and soldiers cannot defend. No special atmosphere is needed, only a spontaneous, insignificant spark.

President Johnson called out paratroopers Monday night after thousands of Michigan National Guardsmen and thousands of police failed to stem the mob's tide.

Upward to $150 millions in property loss and 14 dead was the early week count. Newark's death toll last week was 26.

What Stokley Carmichael, now in Cuba, and others spew as "black power" is nothing more than license for lawlessness on an incredible scale. The Negro suffers 10 times and 10 years the amount of momentary release and recompense the mob seems to enjoy.

Comparing the Motor City to a bombed-out Berlin, Mayor Jerome Cavanaugh said, "this is an explosion of the completely lawless element."

Newark Mayor Hugh Addonizio said the same thing last week when a riot ravaged that New Jersey city.

President Johnson said Monday night "we will not tolerate lawlessness, we will not endure violence."

It would appear too much has been tolerated. Any legitimate civil rights effort founders in such chaos, as indeed local law authority flounders in myriad limitation imposed before a riot explodes.

The ghetto is not a pleasant place, but burning down ghetto and property at random won't replace it.

The pattern of lawlessness demonstrates more than anticipated in 1967's "Long, Hot Summer." It demonstrates a leaderless movement, at present, which finds unjustifiable destruction poor outlet for a dilemma that is 300 years old and growing older.

'As The Sky Above' . . . .

Fortunately, Milam County yet awaits the problem of smog.

But a trip to Texas cities shows a pall hanging over the skyscrapers and lifting from the smokestacks of great industrial complex.

Texas is industrializing rapidly, setting itself a post to follow the rampant example of California, already gearing for 60 million people by year 2,000.

Fortunately, in the also, prospective Milam County and Cen-Tex industry has ample opportunity to employ the technics which Eastern industry has been slow to ken. It is costly kenning, but less than to people.

One of the reasons Texas is growing is the clear atmosphere over its spaciousness. People leave the Northeast to live better, and in the extreme, to breath better. Texas should not forget that welcome Yankee influx could be brief if they must move from pale to pall.

The Central Texas Southwest has abundance to offer, and an advantage as clear as the sky above to keep.

STATE Capital NEWS

By VERN SANFORD

Newspaper readers throughout Texas soon will be seeing long columns of type about important issues as Secretary of State John Hill begins to advertise the six proposed constitutional amendments to be voted on November 11.

Fourteen additional amendments will be on the 1968 ballot.

Eight of the 20 amendments are of interest mainly to special groups (eg: legislators or state employees). Eight others would provide local governments with new powers or duties. Only four of the group directly affect most Texans.

JOHN HILL

Amendments to be voted on this year will appear on the balot in this order:

—No. 1, House Joint Resolution 3, to permit counties to put all tax money in a single general fund rather than dividing income in specified amounts among separate funds for earmarked purposes as is now required.

—No. 2, HJR 37, allowing cities and other governmental units within hospital districts to levy taxes for participation in mental health and mental retardation community centers.

—No. 3, HJR 17, reviving the veterans land program and authorizing a total of $400 million in bonds to finance continued purchase of farm and ranch land by veterans, including those who have served in Southeast Asia during present hostilities.

—No. 4, HJR 6, authorizing counties to pay medical, doctor and hospital bills of county law enforcement officers injured in line of duty.

—No. 5, HJR 12, authorizing a $75 million state revenue bond issue for the development of state parks and recreational areas. Bonds are expected to be financed by a small admission fee.

—No. 6, HJR 27, permitting state officers and employees to hold nonelective positions under the state or U.S. governments where there is no conflict of interest and where the state might benefit.

That's all for '67.

Top interest in these amendments doubtless will center on the park bond proposal and the veterans land amendment.

Hospital mental health and mental retardation groups will emphasize the importance of Amendment No. 2 to the new community center approach of treating mental patients close to home.

Calling the 1967 election for Veterans Day and a Saturday, undoubtedly, was to assure a large voter turn-out for the land fund amendment. A substantial campaign to urge its passage already is taking form.

Gov. John Connally is the principal backer of the parks bond issue. Last December he unveiled a 10-year plan for acquiring and developing 150,960 acres of recreational lands and historical sites. This would more than triple present state park acreage and open a variety of new facilities for outdoor recreation.

Only opposition to the amendment to date has been based on the $1 a car park-entry fee, initially proposed by Connally to finance the vast program, and scattered complaints that facilities included in the governor's master plan do not adequately serve some areas of the state.

He is expected to spearhead an intensive fall campaign -- supported by parks, recreational and outdoor groups -- to put over the bond issue.

The veterans land amendment would add another $200 million to state bonds previously authorized and through which 35,300 veterans have purchased farm and ranch properties at low interest rates spread over a 40-year pay period.

This amendment would raise the amount which could be borrowed under the program from $7,500 to $10,000. The program was initiated in 1949. Additional bonds were approved by voters in 1951 and 1956. Amendments to enlarge the bond authorization were rejected at elections in 1963 and 1965. Opposition came mainly from Dallas and Houston.

Proponents emphasize that, while thousands of veterans have benefitted from the program, it has cost the state no money and actually has turned a profit of $2,500,000 a year while providing an expanded land market.

Opposition has adopted the argument that it is not the function of the state government to engage in the loan business and that veterans have had plenty of time to participate. Some also contend that "cheap money" invites purchases of land not needed and which will not be put to productive use.

Amendment No. 2 specifies that the legislature, in providing for creation of hospital districts, does not have to require that the districts assume full responsibility for community mental health and retardation centers and services. It would permit cities and counties to levy taxes and issue bonds for such services. Subdivisions within existing districts would be authorized to do so unless statutes creating the districts expressly prohibit.

An attorney general's opinion held that the constitution does not allow political subdivisions within the boundary of a hospital district to levy taxes for medical and hospital service. Under that ruling, cities and counties located in such districts were restricted from participating in establishment of community health centers. Therefore, only hospital districts could establish such centers, a key part of the mental health program.

Amendments Nos. 3, 4, and 5 are self explanatory and apparently non-controversial.

Amendment No. 6 is aimed primarily at permitting educators, who are paid from state funds, to serve on federal advisory boards.

OLD PHILOSOPHER

Dear editar:

I was fishing the other afternoon and thought I'd hooked a good one, even when it broke the surface glinting in the sunshine. Looked like at least a three-pound gaspergou, but when I got it to the bank I discovered it was only a copy of The Houston Chronicle and I lost my bait besides. There are days like that.

I re-baited and let the paper dry out and looked it over and ran into an article that made me forget all about my cork.

According to it, science is moving in on fishing. It's working on a system where you ride along in a boat, locate a school of fish by radar, then pull them in with a vacuum cleaner type suction pipe. In thirty minutes a man can have a boat full and be back on the job on his tractor or in his office or wherever he works.

I estimate this will save 15 million man-hours of fishing a year, and it got me to thinking of other areas.

Take golf. As I understand it, from what I've seen on television when no western was on, the object of the game is to sink a ball in a minimum of strokes, but like it is you drive the ball through the air and when it lands it bounces around no telling where. Why not connect the holes up with pipes on the ground and drive through them, making a hole-in-one at every green and thus saving maybe 50 million man-hours of golf a year?

Or dominoes. Why put dots on just one side? Put them on both and a game could be played in 30 seconds. The same could be done with bridge cards, although I haven't worked out anything yet with checkers. Baseball? Magnetize the ball and the outfielders' gloves and finish a game in 30 minutes with 27 flies caught by both sides. All games would end in a tie, the national standings would always be the same and the newspapers would never have to re-set any type.

By failing to utilize science in all games and sports, I figure the United States is wasting 14 billion man-hours a year, delaying the average man's entry into a rest home by 15 or 20 years. I turn the problem over to Congress.

After finishing reading the paper, I resumed fishing and about sundown pulled in four 2-pounders and came home. There's nothing better than a copy of The Chronicle to wrap fish in.

Yours faithfuly,
J. A.

Outdoors In Texas

By Vern Sanford

On the bulletin board in the office of a large Texas firm is a huge chart. It shows the vacation schedule of each employee. Also the route each will follow on his or her vacation trip.

In nearly every instance each employee had specified where he would be spending the night. In addition, each gave a description of his or her car, its color, make, model, year and license number.

"So far it has never been necessary to make an emergency contact with any of our vacationing employees," said the office manager. "However, if an emergency ever arises, we can easily get in touch with any person."

Isn't this a good practice for anyone to follow who travels? This, whether he be a salesman, hunter, a fisherman or just vacationing? Much contacting trouble can be eliminated by the simple process of keeping your car description and license number on file in your office or with someone who may need to contact you.

There are all kinds of safety precautions which may prevent a serious accident, either in your car or on the water. Remember, this is vacation time. Usually it is one of the most disastrous periods of the year. People hurry to the summer vacation spot. Then dash hurriedly home to get the kiddies back in school.

As a result of all this hurry, each year several hundred motorists fail to make it home in one piece. Tragedy is even greater when we start out for pleasure and end up with a serious accident. It mars forever the joy we might have had. All the precautions we take may never be enough. But if one life is saved, some misery is prevented, it's well worth the effort to exercise care.

These same practices should be employed by the boater.

Every person who goes out in a boat should have an efficient life preserver. It shouldn't be just a makeshift, something merely to comply with the law. It should be a life preserver that will work under the most difficult conditions.

Just a seat cushion is all right for the person who is a good swimmer - if he can take it with him when he goes overboard (which is seldom possible) - or there's someone to toss it to him when he hits the water. But a cushion is inadequate for most women and children and quite a few men. Few know how to use them.

Even a ski-belt would be better. The standard, round-like-a-doughnut, life preserver, with rope attached, is much better.

A body-fitting life preserver is much, much safer, especially when going out over open waters. In fact, such a preserver just could be the most important item aboard the boat.

Outdoors people also should take along a first-aid kit. There are many times when a small amount of antiseptic, a simple bandaid or a piece of gauze comes in mighty handy.

One of my friends always carries with him a pair of tweezers. In hunting and fishing he soon learned that it is easy to back into cacti and get a seat filled with thorns. His tweezers have paid off more than once, especially for some of his guests.

All of these things are improtant safety factors when going outdoors. It might be well for you to do some checking and make some provisions for your own safety and convenience.

If this column upset you, it was entirely intentional. Just hope it makes you a bit more careful, whether motoring on the highway or boating on the water.

Texas In Terms Of People

Editors note: The following is part of the proposal leading to creation of the Institute of Texan Cultures by the 60th Legislature. The Institute is preparing an exhibit for HemisFair '68, opening in San Antonio next April. After the fair it will be operated as a permanent center for recording Texas history.

By R. Henderson Shuffler
Director of Inst. of Texan Cultures

There's a story in Texas meeting requirements for the vast and varied audience the HemisFair will provide -- an audience made up of people from all over North, Central and South America, some from other continents, and a tremendous number of Texans.

It is the story of Texas in terms of its people -- the adventurous and enterprising, the impoverished and opposed of many lands, who have come here from the beginning of our settlement and are still coming in amazing numbers. These are the people who have made Texas their home; these are the people who have made Texas.

Originally they were Indian, Spanish, French, Italian, Irish, English, German and Czech. They were Negroes, Anglo-Americans, Swedes, Norse, Danes, Dutch, Mexicans, Greeks, Jews, Japanese, Scots and Poles.

So far, we have found evidence of 25 ethnic or national groups who have contributed significantly to the makeup of our population and our culture. There may be others before we are through.

The point is that these people and their descendants are now all Texans -- Texas and the Texans of today are products of their combined influence on our history and our heritage.

In our exhibit, we are showing when each of these groups came on the Texas scene, who the first-comers were, and why others of their nationality or culture followed.

We have traced the immigration patterns - some came singly, or in small groups, others in organized waves. Some settled in definite ethnic clusters, and have not wholly melted into the overall picture yet. Others scattered throughout Texas, mixing into the general population.

We have traced the important roles played in the history of Texas by individuals from the various groups. We have selected specific examples of Texas events in which the talents of many groups were combined.

It is interesting to note that there were more natives of England at the Alamo than natives of any state of the Union outside of Tennessee; that only two native Texans, one of Mexican ancestry and the other the son of a Corsican, signed our Declaration of Independence.

The Capitol building, designed in the shape of a Greek Cross, was planned by an architect with a German name, working for a syndicate financed by the English. The stonecutters were imported from Scotland, much of the labor force was Irish and the ornamental scrollwork was designed and cast by Czechs.

At least 90 percent of the statuary on the capitol grounds was created by a Texan of Italian birth, that in the rotunda by a Texan of German ancestry from Austria. No one knows who created the heroic figure of the Goddess of Liberty atop the dome, but myth attributes it to a Belgian.

Finally, we hope to show the evidences on the ground today of our truly cosmopolitan heritage. Most Texans know of our many towns of true Germanic flavor and many with the Mexican style. The missions built by Spain are all about us.

What fewer people realize is that we also have the oldest Polish settlement in North America, a village where pure Danish is spoken regularly, a cluster of Norse settlements with true Scandinavian flavor, and a variety of other spots where the essence of an older culture is visibly preserved within the new.

There is even a perfect Russian house in the village of Dubina, and a trio of towns, Moscow, Unalaska and Sebastopol, on the Trinity whose names are the marks of early Russian immigration in this area.

Every person who enters this exhibit, whether he be Texan, out-of-stater or from another country, will find something which ties him to Texas. We will be talking to him about his people, or at the most remote, a people with whom he is familiar.

We will also be giving him the first look anyone has ever had at the truly amazing complexity of the Texas heritage and the richness of our cultural background.

In the process, a feeling of kinship will be established with the descendants of a vast number of the world's peoples and a warm empathy, based on our acknowledgement of our debt to their older cultures.

It is obvious that this first showing will merely skim the surface. Anything more would be wasted on a fair audience with too many other things to see and too little time in which to see them. Still, it should have a tremendous impact and stir the interest of many Texans in pursuing this subject in depth -- each especially, within the groups from which he or she is descended.

We have too long told the Texas story only in the terms of the Southern Anglo - American, who came as a planter, a cowboy, or just looking for a fight. This isn't the whole story of Texas, nor of its people.

Our many ethnic groups who know something of their own contributions, but seldom see them mentioned, will greet this acknowledgement of their role in the creation of Texas with genuine and lasting enthusiasm.

The first work of the Institute, which we propose should take over the exhibits and building after the HemisFair, will be the enrichment in depth of each of the ethnic areas. In this they will have the enthusiastic support of the many ethnic or national societies already active in the State. Additional support from foundations and industry is to be expected.

From time to time, as special occasions arise, the emphasis of the entire exhibit area can be focused on one special group.

Later, interpretations of the roles of each in some special phase of our development -- as in transportation from the days of the oxcart and riverboat to the airplane, or in the oil business, or agriculture, can be explored. The possibilities are as broad as Texas and as rich as Texas history. These groups, combined, are after all the people of Texas.

Temple Club Sets Amateur Partners Golf Tournament

Local golfers have been invited to compete in the fifth annual amateur partnership tournament on the lakeside Temple Country Club course August 5 and6.

The field will be limited to the first 144 qualified entries, who will compete in low ball medal play.

Tournament chairman Sam Hendler Jr. said golfers will play 18 holes on August 5 to qualify and determine flights. The Saturday score plus another 18 holes played on Sunday will decide winners in the various flights.

All college and university team players will be required to declare in the championship flight. Any other teams may declare to play in the championship flight if they wish to do so.

There will be a cocktail party for wives of players at 3 p.m. Saturday. A buffet and dance at 7:30 p.m. Saturday will feature the Lynn Stanford trio.

Entry fee for each player is $17.50, which includes tickets to the buffet and dance. Additional tickets for wives or other guests are $2 when paid at registration, Hendler said. Deadline is 2 p.m. Saturday, August 5.

The Best Way To Buy Beef? Costs Should Be Compared

COLLEGE STATION

What's the best way to buy beef? There is no set answer to the question of whether or not it pays to buy beef by the side or by the cut, Dr. Ed Uvacek, Extension livestock marketing specialist at Texas A&M University, says.

A USDA Choice carcass advertised at 45 cents a pound may look good, but the consumer should examine the real cost comparisons of such an undertaking. These facts could determine if it would be profitable for you to rush to the store and buy a quarter or half a carcass.

The beef carcass is not all steaks and roasts. In fact only about 50 percent of the carcass is steaks and roasts, with the other 24 percent miscellaneous cuts. Twenty-six percent of that carcass is lost in bone, fat trimmings, shrinkage, cutting loss, and waste.

On the average it takes 2.25 pounds of a live Choice grade steer to yield one pound of salable beef in the retail store, Uvacek points out.

To figure your total average cost, multiply the percentage of the carcass (see paragraph at end of story) by the price of that cut in your local meat market. Add these individual costs together and divide by 74 percent since 26 percent of the carcass is waste. The result is the total cost.

To compute the price of a side of beef, divide the price per pound by 74 percent which is the yield of salable beef cuts. To this price add about five cents per pound for storage costs.

Several important factors will further affect your decision to buy retail cuts or a wholesale portion of beef, Uvacek says.

Since these figures are based on average yields for Choice beef carcass, remember that yields could be higher or lower in individual cases.

Make sure you are comparing the same grade beef in each case. The difference between U.S. Good and U.S. Choice is a big one in terms of price and satisfaction.

Processing, cutting, and wrapping are assumed to be included in the price quotation for the carcass. Often, however, it is an extra charge.

Storage costs vary tremendously and depend upon the number of times a freezer is refilled.

The forequarter consists of four cuts in the following percentages: rib roast, 6, chuck roast, 15, ground beef, 12, and stew meat, 5, while the hindquarter consists of six cuts in the following percentages: T-bone, porterhouse, and club steak, 5, round steak, 11, rump roast, 4, sirloin steak, 8, ground beef, 6, and stew meat, 2.

Deferment Possible For Student In Commercial, Vocational School

AUSTIN

Under new draft board policy, students taking commercial or vocational courses not leading to a baccalaureate degree may still be deferred for their activity but this deferment is not mandatory.

Colonel Morris S. Schwartz, state Selective Service director, said last week that he is continuing to recommend that local boards give "serious consideration" to deferment if these students are "receiving instruction a minimum of 25 clock hours a week, either day or night classes."

Col. Schwartz said he had advised local boards that, under present policy, the commercial college or vocational school student would now be classified in Class 2-A instead of Class 2-S, if deferred.

The state director said "deferment will be by local board judgment of the merits in each individual case and may be denied on the basis that it is not in the national interest."

COLLEGE STUDENTS

Scholastic deferment of undergraduate college and university students who meet the requirements of the new draft regulations now is mandatory upon the request of the students.

The state Selective Service director said he had advised all college and university registrars that "rank-in-class information is no longer needed in the administration" of the Selective Service law. Draft boards have been advised officially not to request any student or school in the future to furnish class-rank data.

The boards have been advised officially by Col. Schwartz to reopen the classification of qualified undergraduate college students now classified in 1-A as available for military service, even though they may be under induction orders.

To be qualified, the student must be under 24 years old and must be satisfactorily pursuing a full-time course of instruction toward a baccalaureate degree.

The state director said that, in cases where these students have not requested deferment, he has advised local boards to postpone induction to give them an opportunity to request it. These students will be advised that their induction orders will be cancelled if scholastic deferment is requested immediately.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Accusing the Wrong Man

Late one night a widow, living alone, heard footsteps approaching her bedroom. While she lay in terrified silence, an intruder entered the room, scooped up her jewelry, and departed.

Feeling sure she had recognized the man as a neighborhood gardener, she filed burglary charges with the police. But at the trial, the gardener produced such an airtight alibi that the jury found him innocent.

At this point he decided to switch from a defendant into a plaintiff. He filed suit against the widow for damages on grounds of "malicous prosecution."

"Since her acusation against me was a mistake," he argued in court, "she ought to pay for calling me a criminal and making me go through the ordeal of a trial."

But the court refused to hold the widow liable. The judge said a person cannot be held responsible for malicious prosecution so long as he had at least "probable cause" for making the original accusation—even if the charge did not stand up in court.

If an accuser does bring charges without having probable cause to believe they are true, then he may indeed be held liable for damages. For example:

One man was held liable for malicious prosecution because he brought unfounded theft charges against a business rival—simply as a means of collecting a debt.

And another man was held liable for malicious prosecution because he brought unfounded trespassing charges against a neighbor—simply as a means of throwing a scare into other possible trespassers.

But as a rule, courts are cautious about imposing liability on an accuser. For if such liability was imposed too freely, people might be discouraged from reporting crimes to the authorities. Even the well-meaning citizen might decide to keep quiet, rather than run the risk of being sued afterward for his pains.

Law enforcement relies heavily on its lines of communication with the general public. Giving an accuser reasonable protection against claims of malicious prosecution is one way of keeping those lines of communication open.

Law Changes For Student Induction

AUSTIN

By Vern Sanford

According to Col. Morris S. Schwartz, state Selective Service director, deferments for students at commercial colleges or vocational shcools will not be mandatory under new draft laws.

Congress left this decision to local boards. They alone make the decision, based on the merits of each individual case.

Draft classifications will be changed to Class 2-A for those deferred because of civilian occupations other than agriculture jobs, and Class 2-S for students working toward a degree.

Schwartz says that local boards give serious consideration to students receiving at least 25 clock hours of instruction a week.

Deferment of students enrolled in graduate schools of medicine, dentistry, veterinary medicine, osteopathy or optometry now is mandatory. However, they are subject to military service upon completion of schooling.

A student may be deferred as long as five years for a doctoral or professional degree or its equivalent.

OIL ALLOWABLE

Statewide oil allowable for August has been raised by the Railroad Commission to 54 percent of potential.

This will permit an all-time record production of 4,186 barrels a day.

That will be some 345,000 barrels more than the previous record set on July 15 of this year.

P. S. You might think all this means that Safeway meats are expensive. Not so. Safeway meats are always reasonably priced and we have specials every week that offer additional money savings on selected popular cuts. Come in and check the values!

. . . and here's why we are able to make our famous money-back guarantee

Every day, the meat cases at every Safeway store are stocked with top quality meats. All day long, as our customers make their selections, the displays are replenished with meats of the same fine quality. This is the only kind of meats we have — the best! !
When your reputation has been built on perfect-eating meats, you don't compromise methods that assure top quality. These are the reasons we know every cut will be right and why we can back every sale with our guarantee of complete satisfaction:

GUARANTEE
If ever a purchase of Safeway Meat fails to please for any reason whatsoever, just tell us. We will refund your money promptly, courteously. There's no need to return the meat.

EXPERT MEAT CUTTING AND TRIMMING
Our method of trimming meat gives you more good eating meat on the table for your money, because excess fat and bone are cut off before the meat is weighed. In preparing meats for sale, we also make sure that each cut will be just right for its cooking method. The meat on every Safeway steak, for example, is all steak meat. The less tender end portion has been trimmed off to be sold at a lower price per pound. Similarly, a Safeway roast is roast meat.

USDA CHOICE BEEF & LAMB
(Only top grades, too, in pork and baby beef)
At Safeway, every steak, every chop, every roast of beef and lamb is of USDA Choice grade. This is meat graded by U. S. Department of Agriculture experts who judge strictly and impartially. USDA Choice is awarded only to meat that will deliver tender, juicy, flavorful cuts. It is the most popular grade of beef.
In order to feature lower prices, some other stores buy meat of lower grades. Some others mix USDA Choice and lower grades. Some coin fancy names for the lower grades they sell. But at Safeway every cut of beef and lamb is USDA Choice.

SCIENTIFIC MEAT AGING
Even the finest quality beef and lamb reach peak flavor only after proper aging. In vast air-conditioned aging rooms, Safeway holds meats under controlled temperature and humidity the exact time required to assure full tenderness and flavor.
Extra storage space with expensive air-conditioning equipment is required to do this job correctly. Some stores which claim to age meat do not even have the facilities to do meat aging.

Blackland Producers Naming Chairmen For County Voice

Row crop farmers are realizing the need of an association to represent their interest in farm programs, Kenneth Johnson, acting president, Blackland Cotton and Grain Producers Association, reports.

The Blackland Cotton and Grain Producers Association was formed about a month ago, and since then interest "has been amazing", Johnson said.

Purpose of the group is to represent Blackland and surrounding area row crop farmers in farm programs and to increase the net profit to the farmer.

"We had 13 counties join the organization originally, now we have twice that amount represented," Johnson said.

Most pressing need at the present time is for county chairmen. Each county is in need of a chairman to represent that county and handle details of the organization," Johnson explained. Anyone wanting to help in the formation of the Blackland Cotton and Grain Producers Association within an individual county should contact Johnson. His mailing address is Box 126, Taylor, Texas.

"There are many problems already facing the cotton farmer in this area that must be resolved so that farmers will get representation," Johnson said. "We must get organized as quickly as possible and make plans to counteract some of the proposals already made for changes in cotton and grain programs for next year," he said.

This Is A Fact, Not Words .....

By ACTUAL COMPARISON:

Charles Chandler, owner of Cameron Lumber Co., compared his June, 1967 Sale results with one the previous year. There was little comparison. Net Cash Sales were up 30% using a 4-page Herald tabloid section and some extra copies around town. Last year he used a 4-color catalog direct mailed at about the same cost, but reached 1,000 fewer households.

....PROVEN RESULTS

"Business for the whole month was up," Chandler says, "And the Cameron Herald brought in a lot of it."

Where There Was Nothing...

Pictures are made by fools like me. But it took an architect-friend to help me appreciate this one.

"I'm always impressed," he said, "when someone puts beauty and meaning where otherwise there would have been nothing. That's what God did when he made this tree!"

Photographers like to pretend they're philosophers. So I titled my picture Where There Was Nothing . . .

Next Sunday my architect-friend invited me to church. A bit overwhelmed by this sudden solicitude for my long-neglected spiritual welfare. I went. And there a remarkable discovery awaited me!

It is a drab expanse of broad, flat years which I call my life. And only God seems able to put beauty and meaning where otherwise there was nothing. Every Sunday a new truth grips me. Every Sunday I discover a new tree!

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

NEW HISTORICAL MARKERS HONOR OUTSTANDING WOMEN OF TEXAS

AUSTIN

The Texas State Historical Survey Committee and its private affiliate, the Texas Historical Foundation, working in cooperation with the Texas Federated Women's Clubs have initiated a new official state marker series to commemorate the "Outstanding Women of Texas." The announcement was made by Charles R. Woodburn, president of the Texas State Historical Survey Committee.

Woodburn pointed out, "There isn't an organization in the state of Texas better qualified than the Texas Federated Women's Clubs to spearhead the program needed to bring recognition, long past due, to the women who made Texas great."

The goal of the program by the three agencies is to mark, preserve and restore the birthplaces, homes and scenes of acomplishments of Texas women who have contributed to the economic, cultural, political and social life of their community, area and state.

Woodburn stated, "We don't have a county in Texas that doesn't have at least one woman who should be honored for the part she had in making that county a better place in which to live.

"While the old saying 'the hand that rocks the cradle is the hand that rules the world' may be slightly exaggerated, the women of Texas played a profound part in guiding the destiny of our great state."

WASHINGTON D.C. The following letters were recently answered by the Department of State.

Korean Armistice

Could you send me details on the events leading up to our signing of the treaty ending the Korean War? From the little I know now, one would think we lost the war, or came up with the "stalemate" we hear about so much when dealing with Red China.

D. P.
Hacienda Heights, Cal,

Dear Mr. P.:

Hostilities in Korea were concluded by the "Military Armistice in Korea and Temporary Supplementary Agreement." This armistice was signed at Panmunjom, Korea, July 27, 1953. The document is printed in United States Treaties and Other International Agreements, Vol. 4, part 1, 1953. You will also find this and other documents concerning the Korean conflict in American Foreign Policy, 1950-1955.

Enclosed is a copy of "Major Publications of the Department of State." On pages 10-12 of this pamphlet are listed a number of official publications bearing on the action in Korea and the negotiations leading to the armistice. The publications mentioned, as well as those listed in the enclosure presumably are available in the larger public and university libraries in your area, or are obtainable through them on interlibrary loan.

Viet Cong Prisoners

I have a son in Vietnam, and am very concerned about what might happen if he were captured. I suggest every effort should be made to see that the Geneva Convention is followed, even if it should mean ending the turning over of prisoners to the South Vietnamese Government by the United States. Of course many acts of the Viet Cong seem more like local crimes than acts of war, and I recognize the difficulty here.

D. D. M.
East Lansing, Mich

Dear Mr. M.:

The Government of South Vietnam has adhered to the 1949 Geneva Convention on prisoners of war, has issued instructions and regulations in pursuance thereof, and is exerting every effort to assure that Viet Cong and North Vietnamese Army prisoners are treated in conformity with the Convention. We have regularly consulted with the Government of South Vietnam on the fulfillment of these provisions and will continue to do so.

Moreover, in conformity with the Geneva Conventions, strict regulations and procedures govern the treatment of prisoners transferred from United States forces to ARVN custody, and we know of no instances when prisoners so transferred have been tortured or executed. In point of fact, the increasing numbers of Viet Cong and North Veitnamese regulars who have been defecting to the ARVN under the Chieu Hoi program indicates a growing degree of assurance among enemy forces that upon coming over they will receive humane treatment.

In addition, representatives of the International Committee of the Red Cross stationed in South Vietnam have visited the prisoner of war detention camps, with the full cooperation of the Government of Veitnam, and continue to play an active role in ensuring compliance with the Geneva Conventions. By contrast, North Vietnam has consistently refused the ICRC permission to inspect camps where United States prisoners are held captive or otherwise to extend to them the guarantees pledged under the Convention, of which North Vietnam is a signatory.

25 Hear Talks On CTID By Directors Hays, Gilmore

About 25 community leaders from Milam County towns and county area 2 p.m. Wednesday heard an introduction to the workings of Central Texas Industrial District.

They heard Preston Hays, executive director of the 12-county CTID area, and Jackson Gilmore, his assistant and district planner. They were introduced by Judge O. B. Harden, Milam County chairman of the CTID.

Milam County is one of 12 Central Texas counties in CTID.

A three to nine-month planning phase must be followed for the district before submitting an Economic Development Plan to Austin for approval, Hays said. Without a plan, no loans or grants are available for industrial or tourist project development, or related needs, he said.

"There is no easy money," Hays said. "Each project must be feasible and contribute to creating employment, permanent employment in a given situation."

Projects such as manpower surveys, training programs through Connally Tech, industrial park surveys are included in CTID scope.

The CTID organization is the second in Texas, one of seven when all are completed, and one of 40 in the nation thus far chartered. Headquarters is at Connally Tech, Waco.

A district budget of $54,000, including an $8,000 office allowance from Connally Tech, is budgeted. Milam County's contribution was $303. A federal grant of some $40,000 was a primary funding agency.

Federal grants for various approved projects are available through the program, Hays said.

Present were: Milam County commissioners, Mayor Bassel Wilson, Mayor Pro tem Starrett Hickman and Councilman Lester Turnner, Mayor Harold Luckey of Rockdale, and representatives from Thorndale, the CIO-AFL steelworkers local, Rockdale, county and other local leaders.

The Cameron meeting was the first held by the CTID officials in any of the 12 counties.

6 Day Parcel Service Restored By Post Office

Postmaster Narvie L. Caperton today announced that parcel post deliveries in Cameron has been expanded from five to six days a week.

This is in line with a recent directive from Postmaster General Lawrence F. O'Brien following the signing of the Post Office Department appropriation bill by President Johnson. The legislation contains an $8.5 million item for restoration of the six-day a week delivery which had been cut back in May, 1964 as an economy measure.

Nearly 5000 cities are affected, Caperton said.

The Cameron postal official noted that the improved service will remove an inequity for many business and residential routes.

Postal customers served by 'motorized'' letter carriers have been receiving six-day deliveries all along. They were not covered by the 1964 cut-back inasmuch as carriers on vehicles can deliver parcels of any size.

Customers living on routes serviced by foot carriers have received larger parcels from a five-day a week parcel post route covered by a truck.

The Board also voted to accept the new field house from the construction company with certain reservations concerning the paint job.

Coastal Yields 10 Tons An Acre In Demonstration

WALLER

A result demonstration here is producing some fantastic yields of coastal bermudagrass.

The 12-acre demonstration is on the farm of C. W. and Richard Frey.

Results are not all in for this year, but last year, a three-acre plot getting 400 pounds of nitrogen yielded over 21,000 pounds an acre of 10.3 percent crude protein forage. And it was not irrigated.

Burl Richardson, Waller County agricultural agent, said the demonstration compares four fertilizer rates: 100, 200, 300 and 400 pounds of nitrogen and proportionate amounts of phosphorus and potash.

The first two plots, those getting 100 and 200 pounds N. were completely out of the picture in terms of yield and crude protein content, said Richardson.

The plot getting 300 pounds N yielded over 19,000 pounds per acre. Crude protein for four cuttings averaged 8.5 percent.

Richardson said if the hay was sold on a quantity basis alone, the same price for all hay regardless of protein content, the plot that got 300 pounds N made the most money.

But putting a value on digestible protein -- it's worth about 13.8 cents a pound in cottonseed meal -- the plot getting 400 pounds N netted the Freys an extra $51 an acre.

Richardson pointed out the extra $51 an acre would be realized only if the hay was sold on a protein basis or fed to the owner's livestock.

He said there is a trend now to charge higher prices for hay with a higher crude protein content. This year the Freys plan to keep their hay separate according to protein content and price it accordingly.

From the entire 12-acre demonstration last year they harvested an outstanding 95 tons of hay.

Medicare Tallies First Year Cost

During its first year the new Federal medicare program paid out more than $130,300,000 for the care of people age 65 and over in Texas according to Wayman Register, Social Security Regional Assistant Commissioner in Dallas.

About $100,000,000 of this amount was paid to the 548 hospitals which participate and the remainder was mostly for doctors' services.

Register said that there are 895,500 people over 65 in the state who are eligible for the Hospital Insurance and this group produced 300,000 hospital admissions.

While there was a increase in hospital use by older people, Register emphasized that the increase has been within "reasonable limmits." "Overall, the program has increased total hospital occupancy

Summer weather calls for something refreshing at mealtime.

What could be more pleasing to the palate -- any meal of the day -- than ice cold melons?

This is the time of year when you'll find a good selection of these ripe, juicy melons on the market, says the U.S. Department of Agriculture. You'll find especially good supplies of cantaloupes. The watermelon season is moving into full swing. Honeydews are appearing on fruit counters, too.

While USDA's Consumer and Marketing Service is reporting such a good supply of watermelons and cantaloupes arriving at local markets, you'll find it an ideal time to utilize these melons in various desserts and appetizers for lazy summer eating.

For a refreshing starter on a summer morning, wedges of lime, generous spoonfuls of chilled canned fruit cocktail or fresh fruits and cantaloupe half-shell add to a delightful breakfast treat. Put the assorted fruits in chilled cantaloupe and squeeze lime juice over all.

WATERMELON ICE provides a pleasing dessert. You'll need ¼ of a medium sized watermelon, 1½ cups of water, 1 to 3 cups sugar, lemon juice.

Cut the melon into pieces. Remove rind. Rub pink meat through a sieve to measure two cups of pulp and juice. Combine with ½ cup of the water and sugar. Boil for three minutes, Cool.

Add salt, lemon juice and remaining one cup water. Pour into freezer. Pack with nine parts chopped ice and one part rock salt. Turn evenly until frozen. Drain off water. Remove dasher, and repack in four parts chopped ice and one part rocksalt. Let freeze one hour before serving, Yields one quart.

COUNTY AGENT'S NOTES

—By—

J. D. MOORE

The 17th annual Beef Cattle shortcourse will be held at Texas A&M University August 14-15, according to U. D. Thompson, Extension Animal Husbandman. Such topics as "Changing Herd Production Operations to Meet the Challenge," "Costs and Returns from Commercial Feeding Operations" and many others of current interest to cattlemen will be discussed by authorities in these fields. County stockmen are encouraged to take advantage of this opportunity to take a look at the cattle situation. A complete program of the short course is on file in the County Agents office.

The most common symptom of drought injury is dying around margins of leaves with the dead area progressing into the leaf and causing dessication (drying out) of leaf tissue between veins toward the midrib, according to Dr. Wendell Horne, plant pathologist at A&M. Areas one-fourth to one-half inch wide along veins are the last to become dessicated. Drought injury occurs when there is an inadequate supply of soil moisture available to the plant.

For some, fish farming is a profitable sideline. For others it is a full-time money-making business, and a few are losing money at it, acording to Wallace Klussman, wildlife specialist at A&M. But it is a growing business. About 20-25 million pounds of catfish were harvested in the U. S. in 1966, compared to only a few thousand pounds in 1963.

Fish farming has increased in Texas from about 300 acres of water in 1960 to 2,000 acres in 1966.

A fish farmer must be an aquatic biologist, fish culturist, financier, and a business man, who excels in merchandising and marketing. It takes a Jack-of-all-trades. He must be willing to work hard, often in the mud and water, and invest considerable money with no guarantee of income. To produce fish stocked at high numbers the fish farmer must know the fundamentals of spawning, disease prevention, and nutritional requirements of fish. Before producing his fish crop he should investigate potential markets. Generally it is up to the producer to find and develop various markets for the fish produced. Many of the biological problems of fish farming have been solved by research or experience. Certainly they are understood well enough to permit a profitable fish farming business.

Channel catfish can be stocked at rates of 200 to 750 per surface acre. Where evaporation and dry spells must be considered, the lower stocking rates should be used.

The feeding schedule need not be rigid, but it should be as close as possible to the regular procedure for an intensive operation. Feeding large amounts of feed at irregular intervals does not permit the feed to be used efficiently.

Partial harvesting can be done by fishing or seining. Draining is the only sure way to remove all fish. Obviously, a few small ponds are not the basis for a commercial venture. But it may be that stocking catfish alone will offer the owner of a small surface pond an opportunity to fill his home freezer with good food and provide better fishing for family fun.

Most farmers and stockmen feed commercial pelleted feeds with 28 to 32 percent protein -- about 20 percent of the protein is from animal sources, according to Klussman.

Woman Arrested In Milam, Waco; Returned To Kansas

Laura Scott, alias Birdie Mercer, was turned over to Kansas authorities last week after an application for a writ of habeas corpus was denied by District Judge W. C. Wallace.

She was charged with grand larceny (shoplifting) in Sedgwick County, Kansas and had forfeited her appearance bond in Wichita, Kansas. She had been in Milam County jail charged with concealing property stolen by Knowland Webb from the Burlington Store, was transfered to McLennan County jail on a shoplifting charge, and was returned to Milam County for the extradition hearing on an executive warrant from Governor John Connally.

County Attorney John Henderson Jr. said the hearing in Milam County District Court was to test legality of her arrest and detention on the executive warrant.

6 Day Parcel Service Restored By Post Office

Postmaster Narvie L. Caperton today announced that parcel post deliveries in Cameron has been expanded from five to six days a week.

This is in line with a recent directive from Postmaster General Lawrence F. O'Brien following the signing of the Post Office Department appropriation bill by President Johnson. The legislation contains an $8.5 million item for restoration of the six-day a week delivery which had been cut back in May, 1964 as an economy measure.

Nearly 5000 cities are affected, Caperton said.

The Cameron postal official noted that the improved service will remove an inequity for many business and residential routes.

Postal customers served by 'motorized" letter carriers have been receiving six-day deliveries all along. They were not covered by the 1964 cut-back inasmuch as carriers on vehicles can deliver parcels of any size.

Customers living on routes serviced by foot carriers have received larger parcels from a five-day a week parcel post route covered by a truck.

Rogers High is still looking for a band teacher and a math teacher according to Supt. B. F. Harbour.

In other business, the Board voted to renew its contract for student and football insurance with the Standard Accident and Life Insurance Co., voted to buy one new bus for the ensuing school year - a 54 passenger bus, which will be bought through the State Board of Control. The Board also voted to accept the new field house from the construction company with certain reservations concerning the paint job.

Coastal Yields 10 Tons An Acre In Demonstration

WALLER

A result demonstration here is producing some fantastic yields of coastal bermudagrass.

The 12-acre demonstration is on the farm of C. W. and Richard Frey.

Results are not all in for this year, but last year, a three-acre plot getting 400 pounds of nitrogen yielded over 21,000 pounds an acre of 10.3 percent crude protein forage. And it was not irrigated.

Burl Richardson, Waller County agricultural agent, said the demonstration compares four fertilizer rates: 100, 200, 300 and 400 pounds of nitrogen and proportionate amounts of phosphorus and potash.

The first two plots, those getting 100 and 200 pounds N. were completely out of the picture in terms of yield and crude protein content, said Richardson.

The plot getting 300 pounds N yielded over 19,000 pounds per acre. Crude protein for four cuttings averaged 8.5 percent.

Richardson said if the hay was sold on a quantity basis alone, the same price for all hay regardless of protein content, the plot that got 300 pounds N made the most money.

But putting a value on digestible protein -- it's worth about 13.8 cents a pound in cottonseed meal -- the plot getting 400 pounds N netted the Freys an extra $51 an acre.

Richardson pointed out the extra $51 an acre would be realized only if the hay was sold on a protein basis or fed to the owner's livestock.

He said there is a trend now to charge higher prices for hay with a higher crude protein content. This year the Freys plan to keep their hay separate according to protein content and price it accordingly.

From the entire 12-acre demonstration last year they harvested an outstanding 95 tons of hay.

Danny Thweatt To Audition At Austin

The Texas Youth Conference Talent Festival is attracting many young people to Austin for auditions the week of July 26-29 in preparation for the Talent Festival '67 Finals to be held at the Austin City Auditorium August 17.

Danny L. Thweatt, Maysfield, will perform a vocal solo of songs depicting a "proud Texan" and from a musical comedy for his audition.

First place winners in the finals will receive $100 and a trip to New York or Hollywood to be interviewed by professional talent scouts. Second and third place winners will receive $50 and $25, respectively.

Medicare Tallies First Year Cost

During its first year the new Federal medicare program paid out more than $130,300,000 for the care of people age 65 and over in Texas according to Wayman Register, Social Security Regional Assistant Commissioner in Dallas.

About $100,000,000 of this amount was paid to the 548 hospitals which participate and the remainder was mostly for doctors' services.

Register said that there are 895,500 people over 65 in the state who are eligible for the Hospital Insurance and this group produced 300,000 hospital admissions.

While there was a increase in hospital use by older people, Register emphasized that the increase has been within "reasonable limmits." "Overall, the program has increased total hospital occupancy

HD Club Notes

By Christine Laws

Summer weather calls for something refreshing at mealtime.

What could be more pleasing to the palate -- any meal of the day -- than ice cold melons?

This is the time of year when you'll find a good selection of these ripe, juicy melons on the market, says the U.S. Department of Agriculture. You'll find especially good supplies of cantaloupes. The watermelon season is moving into full swing. Honeydews are appearing on fruit counters, too.

While USDA's Consumer and Marketing Service is reporting such a good supply of watermelons and cantaloupes arriving at local markets, you'll find it an ideal time to utilize these melons in various desserts and appetizers for lazy summer eating.

For a refreshing starter on a summer morning, wedges of lime, generous spoonfuls of chilled canned fruit cocktail or fresh fruits and cantaloupe half-shell add to a delightful breakfast treat. Put the assorted fruits in chilled cantaloupe and squeeze lime juice over all.

WATERMELON ICE provides a pleasing dessert. You'll need ¼ of a medium sized watermelon, 1½ cups of water, 1 to 3 cups sugar, lemon juice.

Cut the melon into pieces. Remove rind. Rub pink meat through a sieve to measure two cups of pulp and juice. Combine with ½ cup of the water and sugar. Boil for three minutes, Cool.

Add salt, lemon juice and remaining one cup water. Pour into freezer. Pack with nine parts chopped ice and one part rock salt. Turn evenly until frozen. Drain off water. Remove dasher, and repack in four parts chopped ice and one part rocksalt. Let freeze one hour before serving. Yields one quart.

COUNTY AGENT'S NOTES

—By—

J. D. MOORE

The 17th annual Beef Cattle shortcourse will be held at Texas A&M University August 14-15, according to U. D. Thompson, Extension Animal Husbandman. Such topics as "Changing Herd Production Operations to Meet the Challenge," "Costs and Returns from Commercial Feeding Operations" and many others of current interest to cattlemen will be discussed by authorities in these fields. County stockmen are encouraged to take advantage of this opportunity to take a look at the cattle situation. A complete program of the short course is on file in the County Agents office.

The most common symptom of drought injury is dying around margins of leaves with the dead area progressing into the leaf and causing dessication (drying out) of leaf tissue between veins toward the midrib, according to Dr. Wendell Horne, plant pathologist at A&M. Areas one-fourth to one-half inch wide along veins are the last to become dessicated. Drought injury occurs when there is an inadequate supply of soil moisture available to the plant.

For some, fish farming is a profitable sideline. For others it is a full-time money-making business, and a few are losing money at it, acording to Wallace Klussman, wildlife specialist at A&M. But it is a growing business. About 20-25 million pounds of catfish were harvested in the U. S. in 1966, compared to only a few thousand pounds in 1963.

Fish farming has increased in Texas from about 300 acres of water in 1960 to 2,000 acres in 1966.

A fish farmer must be an aquatic biologist, fish culturist, financier, and a business man, who excels in merchandising and marketing. It takes a Jack-of-all-trades. He must be willing to work hard, often in the mud and water, and invest considerable money with no guarantee of income. To produce fish stocked at high numbers the fish farmer must know the fundamentals of spawning, disease prevention, and nutritional requirements of fish. Before producing his fish crop he should investigate potential markets. Generally it is up to the producer to find and develop various markets for the fish produced. Many of the biological problems of fish farming have been solved by research or experience. Certainly they are understood well enough to permit a profitable fish farming business.

Channel catfish can be stocked at rates of 200 to 750 per surface acre. Where evaporation and dry spells must be considered, the lower stocking rates should be used.

The feeding schedule need not be rigid, but it should be as close as possible to the regular procedure for an intensive operation. Feeding large amounts of feed at irregular intervals does not permit the feed to be used efficiently.

Partial harvesting can be done by fishing or seining. Draining is the only sure way to remove all fish. Obviously, a few small ponds are not the basis for a commercial venture. But it may be that stocking catfish alone will offer the owner of a small surface pond an opportunity to fill his home freezer with good food and provide better fishing for family fun.

Most farmers and stockmen feed commercial pelleted feeds with 28 to 32 percent protein -- about 20 percent of the protein is from animal sources, according to Klussman.

Woman Arrested In Milam, Waco; Returned To Kansas

Laura Scott, alias Birdie Mercer, was turned over to Kansas authorities last week after an application for a writ of habeas corpus was denied by District Judge W. C. Wallace.

She was charged with grand larceny (shoplifting) in Sedgwick County, Kansas and had forfeited her appearance bond in Wichita, Kansas. She had been in Milam County jail charged with concealing property stolen by Knowland Webb from the Burlington Store, was transfered to McLennan County jail on a shoplifting charge, and was returned to Milam County for the extradition hearing on an executive warrant from Governor John Connally.

County Attorney John Henderson Jr. said the hearing in Milam County District Court was to test legality of her arrest and detention on the executive warrant.
